SOLOMON DREW takes the present opportunity of returning his grateful thanks to the public, for the liberal encouragement he has received since his commencement in business, and begs leave to assure them that no exertion has been spared to render his establishment convenient for the reception of travellers and a desirable house for respectable boarders. His stock of wines, liquors, beer, &c have been selected with attention, and he trusts they will be found not inferior to any in the district. His stabling is fitted up in the best manner, and well adapted for travellers, or others who wish to have their horses kept by the month, week, or otherwise. At the suggestion of some of his friends, he has appropriated a part of his house to the Oyster Business, where will be furnished oyster suppers in the most comfortable manner and reasonable terms.

N B The subscriber will carry on the Taylor ing business as heretofore, and returns his acknowledgements to his customers in that line, for favors received and hopes to merit their future support. Oct. 21

Notice.

DIFFICULTIES arising from the nature of the following work, the publisher has been compelled to remove to Philadelphia for the better execution of his plan. The editorial department has in consequence fallen into other hands. Mr. ALLEN's present engagement rendering it impossible to superintend it in another city. The friends and relations of the different signers to the Declaration of Independence are therefore requested to direct their favors to the publisher, No. 443, Market-street, Philadelphia.

PROPOSALS

By Joseph M. Sanderson,

For Publishing by Subscription,

A Biography of the Signers OF THE Declaration of Independence,

Accompanied with Plates.

To which will be annexed a History of the Proceedings of Congress, during the passage of the Law, and the Declaration itself, with the fac simile Engravings of the Signatures.

By JOHN SANDERSON.

TO THE PUBLIC.

When we consider the personal qualities of the statesmen whose names are affixed to the Declaration of Independence, the perilous occasion which demanded the exercise of their wisdom and deliberation, and the influence of their councils on the interests of mankind, we must acknowledge that very rarely a more imposing spectacle has been offered to the world, and we shall seek in vain in the annals of nations, for an event more worthy of commemoration, and of being cherished forever in the hearts of a grateful and generous people. The love of independence is interwoven with the frame and constitution of the human mind. It is almost the first sentiment that animates the infant's features in the cradle; and amongst all the actions and enterprizes of man, none has awaked into activity a greater exertion of the virtuous energies of his nature, none has excited a greater warmth of veneration, and has more imperious claims upon our gratitude, than resistance to tyranny and political aggression.

In all republican states the first tribute of genius has been paid to the patriot or the hero who has promoted the cause of liberty and maintained the independence and dignity of man. The animated canvas and breathing marble have rescued his features from the grasp of death, and the pen of the historian has inscribed the achievements to the imperishable records of fame. It would indeed be no favorable prognostic of the perpetuity of our republican institutions to discover an insensibility to the obligations we owe the memory of the illustrious patrons of American freedom. They have raised us, by their magnanimity, from the arbitrary dominion of a foreign power, to the distinguished elevation of a sovereign and independent people; they have asserted and maintained the imprescriptible rights of humanity by the "mutual pledge of their pledge of their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honors;" and, as long as virtue holds her empire in the hearts of their successors, the example of these generous benefactors will not be lost to the world; their names will not pass away nor be forgotten, or their glorious deeds be confounded in the common and casual transaction of life.—Ingratitude is a vice that in nations, as well as individuals, indicates the last degree of degeneracy and corruption; it is a vice that implies the absence of every virtue; it was in the age of Caligula that the name of the Scipios was proscribed, that the state of Brutus brought death on its possessor.

"The glory of our ancestors is the light of posterity," and the homage of the living cannot be offered to the merits of the illustrious dead with an effectual or sterile admiration. Great and splendid actions will seldom be achieved by men who have humble or ordinary objects in prospect. It is by contemplating the life and character of those who are marked out from the multitude by their eminent qualities, that we become emulous of their virtues and their renown. The trophies of Miltiades interrupted the sleeps of Themistocles; and Theseus, hearing the exploits of Hercules, was fired with his spirit, and became the successful rival of his fame. The rude savage of the desert listens with rapture to the deeds of his ancestors, and hangs around his hut the emblems of his father's valour.

More need not be said to enforce the utility of the publication we have undertaken, and which we now submit to the patronage of our fellow-citizens, with a hope, that from the liberality of their encouragement, we shall be able to present it to the public worthy of their approbation. We must depend for the illustration of many of the characters of our biography, upon the generosity of their surviving relatives and friends, to furnish us with whatever interesting materials may be in their possession; for which, with our grateful acknowledgments, we promise a copy of the entire work as a compensation.

CONDITIONS.

I. The work will be published in numbers or half volumes of 200 pages, octavo, and contained in ten numbers. To the first will be prefixed an appropriate frontispiece—and the work will be commenced with the declaration of independence, with engraved fac similes of the signatures, and a compendious detail of the proceedings of congress, during the passage of the law. Each of the lives, unless when it is impracticable, will be preceded by a likeness of the person, engraved by the best artists in the United States.

II. It will be printed on fine paper, made expressly for the purpose, and delivered to subscribers at two dollars and fifty cents per number, payable on delivery.

AMERICAN SKETCHES.

The dew is on the morning flow'r,
The thrush has charmed his leafy bower,
The lark has pealed his coral loud,
Where hangs in silvery wreaths the cloud;
The bees with saffron loads return,
To store with weeds their waxen urn,
And morn her upward car has driven,
Along the crimson fields of heaven.

To view thy works, and not to know,
FATHER! whose goodness made them so!
To hear thy sylvan minstrelsy,
And not to breathe a thought to THEE;
To see THY fingers deck the sky,
With every tint that carms the eye;
And not THY greatness there to read,
Argues a soul that's blind indeed.

BENEVOLENCE.

There is far more satisfaction in doing, than receiving good. To relieve the oppressed, is the most glorious act a man can be capable of; it is in some measure doing the business of God and Providence; and is attended with a heavenly pleasure, unknown but to those that are beneficent and liberal.

GOOD NATURE.

It is the very air of a good mind, the sign of a large and generous soul, and the peculiar soil in which virtue prospers.

MERCY.

It is according to nature, to be merciful; for no man that hath not divested himself of humanity, can be hard hearted to others, without feeling a pain in himself.

DECEPTION.

Sieur Boaz, the slight-of-hand-man, was lately accosted in Carlisle in the usual style, by a retailer of oranges. "Well, my lad, (says the Sieur) how do you sell them?"—"Tuppence a piece," says the orange dealer. "High priced, indeed, (rejoined the deceiver); however we'll try them." Cutting an orange in four pieces, "Behold," says the Sieur, (producing a new guinea from the inside of the orange) "how your fruit repays me for your extortion. Come, I can afford to purchase one more," and he repeated the same experiment as with the first. "Well, to be sure, (says he) they are the first fruit I ever found to produce golden seeds." The Sieur then wished to come to terms for the whole basket; but the astonished clodpole, with joyous alacrity, ran out of the house, and reaching home, began to quarter the contents of the whole basket But, alas! the seeds were no more than the produce of nature—the conjurer alone possessing the golden art.

ALEXANDRIA:
SATURDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 30

We understand, (says the National Intelligencer) that His Danish Majesty has been pleased to consent that an American Consul shall be accredited at the Island of St. Thomas. We further learn that NATHAN LEVY, esq. of Baltimore, will soon take his departure to resume the functions of that consulate.

Washington, October 27.

FROM GIBRALTAR.

The brig Olympia, Captain Rutherford, arrived yesterday from Gibraltar, with salt and wines, to Col. John Taylor, of this city, and Richard Parrot, Esq. of Georgetown.—Captain Rutherford has politely furnished us with the following particulars for publication: "Spoke Oct. 1, lat. 24 15 N. lon. 58 9, schooner Industry, Shearman, from Newport, bound to the West Indies, out 32 days, all well, had experienced much calm weather. Oct. 7, spoke a brig, lumber loaded, from Wiscasaet, bound to Guadaloupe, out 28 days, in lat. 24 45 N. lon. 61 18 W. it blowing fresh, could not learn her name or captain's. Oct. 15, lat. 32 53, N. lon. 71 48 W. spoke schooner Star ing, Martain, of Baltimore, 60 hours from Cape Henry, all well. A Spanish frigate had imported the Yellow Fever into Cadiz, from the Havana, which was spreading rapidly over Spain, and made its appearance within three miles of Gibraltar, which was closed on the 1st of September against all communication with Spain; the plague was also raging on the coast of Barbary, with which the communication was stopped. Our Treaty with Spain was not ratified. A great personage was coming over to the U. States, as Ambassador Extraordinary. The Olympia has dispatches on board from Spain to our government; also about 200 letters from our squadron, merchants, and others, in the Mediterranean." [Nat. Int.

We understand that the Board for the examination of midshipmen and acting lieutenants, broke up on the 23d inst. Upwards of 70 were entitled to examination, out of which number but 28 persons came forward, 12 of which were rejected. The following 16 gentlemen passed, and have been recommended for promotion.—Messrs Williams, Ellery, Newcomb, Young, Bell, Bigelow, Boden, Cambrelling, Freelon, Jarvis, Nixon, Newton, Stallings, Varnum, Wolbert, and Whipple. The Board, we understand, were very critical in their examination, and have observed much care that the candidates should be well qualified for their intended office. [N. Y. D. Adv.

New-York, October 25.

MORE OF THE EXECUTION.

One of the spectators on board of the Retrieve, at the time of the execution of Brown, has furnished us with the following additional particulars:

When on board of the schooner, one of the most appropriate and impressive prayers was delivered, by a gentleman of the Methodist persuasion, that ever was heard by those who were present. After the concluding prayer, the Marshal was told by the clergy attending, that they had finished their exercises. The Marshal then asked the unhappy man whether he was ready—he replied, that he wished to sing one more anthem. The anthem was sung, in which he took part, in a very clear and distinct voice. The anthem concluded, he was again asked by the Marshal whether he was ready; he expressed a desire, which was acquiesced in, to address the spectators. He then rose from the coffin on which he had been seated, and addressed them in nearly the following words:

Gentlemen—You see before you a young man, scarcely 22 years of age, about to suffer death for a foul murder, committed by him on board of this very vessel. I hope that my fate may be an example and a warning to others. For myself I have nothing to ask of man—my petitions for myself are addressed to Heaven; but, for my aged, honest and unhappy mother, who is very poor, I request whatever pecuniary donations any of you have to give, you will give her. For my brother, an honest, industrious young man, I request that my crime may not be visited on him; though guilty myself, he is innocent, and ought not to be disgraced by my criminality. George Brown, the name by which I have passed, is not my real name—my real name is William Tinsdale.

The unhappy man then took leave of his spiritual friends, and of the Marshal, whom he thanked for his kindness towards him, and expressed his readiness to meet his fate, and was instantly launched into eternity.

FRENCH HALF CROWNS.

The nominal value of French Half Crowns is 55 cents; whereas the intrinsic value is little more than half a dollar—averaging at most not more than 51 cents. They are not a legal tender at any rate; and though they have heretofore been paid and received by our banks at 55 cents, yet we learn all now refuse to receive or pay them, except in fractional parts of a dollar, and some of the banks refuse entirely either to pay or receive them.

We are induced to give this public information to prevent any deception from being practised upon the public, as we understand large sums have recently been imported from France, and larger sums are expected with a view of passing them off and circulating them at 55 cents, being 8 or 9 per cent. more than their actual cost in France, or their real value.

By an act of Congress, all foreign gold coin ceases to be a legal tender after the 1st of November next.

It is understood, however, that the Banks of this city will continue to receive it at the former rates, and send it to the mint for re-coinage. [N. Y. Gaz.

From the Sunbury Times.

On the evening of the 13th inst. the wife and six children of Jacob Zartman, of Upper Mahony, and his niece about 20 years of age, of the name of Neighart, were burnt to death in the flames of his house.—This destruction of life and property was attended with the strangest circumstances of which we have ever heard any example. The family were nearly all awake; Mr. Zartman himself lay asleep in the kitchen with one of the children. A girl topped a light, and using no snuffers, threw the top among some tow with which they were working in the adjoining room; the tow blazed up, and instead of running out to the kitchen or through the windows, they ran up stairs and staid there until the flames surrounded them. Even there they might have escaped by the windows, or by merely running down the kitchen stairs, but so far from attempting this, two of them hung fast to a girl, to prevent her escape, so that it was with extreme difficulty she disengaged herself, jumped out of a window and saved her life. Zartman stood at a cherry tree, immovable, looking on, and when his neighbor attempted to extinguish the first spark which caught his large barn, full of grain, Zartman, like a maniac, seized and held him fast in his arms, until the flames had there also become unconquerable. The bones were all found together in a corner, and some of the internal part, including a heart, unconsumed.

LATEST FROM ENGLAND.

The editors of the Mercantile Advertiser have received by the ship London Packet, Captain Thomas, London papers to the 15th September inclusive. British stocks at that date 70½: omnium 3 1-8 ¼.

No political events of importance had occurred in Europe.

Hunt made his triumphal entry into London on the 13th. It is stated that 200,000 people were present; the roads, for five miles from town, were completely blocked up by those who went out to meet him. He arrived in a landau, preceded by a flag, inscribed "Hunt, the heroic champion of Liberty." He alighted at the Crown and Anchor, where he partook of a public dinner, attended by three or four hundred persons. The description of this scene occupies several columns of the papers. London has seldom witnessed such a bustle on any occasion; and the day ended without any riot.

Among the toasts drank, were the following:

Mr. Hunt gave as a toast—"The only source of all legitimate power—the people." Tune, "See the conquering hero comes."

The next toast was—"Universal suffrage, annual parliaments, and vote by ballot—the undoubted right of every Briton." It was received with three times three, and was followed by the tune of "Ca ira."

Toast—"The immortal memory of the Reformers, men, women, and children, who were massacred at Manchester, on the 16th of August." Tune: "The Land of the Leal."

Toast—"May arms be taken from those who abuse them, and given to those who have the courage to use them." Tune, "The Marsellois Hymn."

THE ROBBERY.

A minute detail of the capture of the celebrated David Lewis and his two associates, the supposed robbers of Mr. James MacClelland.

In our last week's paper we stated the robbery of Mr. John M'Clelland, of the house of M'Clelland and Martin, of Pittsburg, near the forks of the road on Sidelinghill, in this country. We are now happily enabled, thro' the highly praise-worthy and brave efforts some of the citizens of this county and the counties of Mifflin and Huntington, to inform the public, that three men (one of whom is the notorious David Lewis) supposed to be the robbers, have been apprehended, and are now in Bedford jail.

On the evening the robbery was committed, Mr. Thomas T. Cromwell, of Huntingdon county, was returning from a meeting held in his neighborhood, and passed three men, who gave him the ordinary salutation of strangers, and passed on. Mr. Js. Lockart, of this county, having heard the news of the robbery, came on to Mr. Richard Ashman's, on foot. Early on Monday morning Mr. Richard Ashman set out on horseback and came to Mr. Cromwell's. He and Mr. Thomas T. Cromwell set out in the direction of Lewistown—Mr. Lockart being on foot could not keep up with them. At Shirleysburgh they were joined by Mr. Patrick MacGarey and Mr. James Ramsey, also on horseback. In Mifflin county, Mr. Ephraim Enser and Mr. William Price, of Waynesburg, joined them. These gentlemen pursued the trails of the three men whom they supposed to be robbers, and who had robbed one or two spring-houses in the course of the preceding night. At a small tavern or dramshop, one mile and a half or two miles below Lewistown, and 60 or 70 miles from the scene of robbery, it was ascertained that three men had taken lodgings for the night. Some of them guarded the house, and others rushed in, and before the supposed robbers were completely awaked, they were secured. No doubt there would have been bloody work, had the three robbers had their pistols and knives at command, which it does not seem they had, though all three were well armed, when travelling, there being found in their sleeping room, two large light-horse pistols, a small one, and two very efficient carving or butcher knives, which it is believed, were stolen by Lewis and one of his companions, out of Mr. Snively's tavern, at the Snake-Spring, a few days previous to the robbery.

After the robbers were brought to Lewistown, and in the act of taking supper, which the pursuers had ordered, Lewis perceiving that a pistol had been inadvertently placed on a side table near where he was sitting, suddenly jumped up, seized the pistol, and made for the door. In the entry he knocked down one man, pushed another aside, and ran up the street. He was pursued by Mr. Price and Mr. Enser. On overtaking him, Mr. Price seized him—but Lewis being too strong for him, threw him off, and in the act of commencing his race, he was laid hold of by Mr. Enser, who told the editor that if he had not thought himself able to manage Lewis, he would have shot him. Mr. Enser attempted to throw him, but failed—and Lewis finding himself matched, turned his hand round and snapped his pistol at the breat of Enser; which fortunately did not go off. At this moment Mr. Enser brought Lewis to the ground with a horrid crash—where he lay for about a minute apparently lifeless. He and his companions were then ironed and lodged in the jail of Lewistown for the night.

On Friday last these three men, one of whom we know to be David Lewis, the other two calling themselves John C Connelly, and James Hanson, were brought to Bedford, by the above named gentlemen, and are now as well secured as the state of our jail will admit. The pursuers found on the prisoners eighteen hundred dollars and cloathing answering to the description of that lost by Mr. MacClelland.

As a small testimony of the high respect with which the citizens of this place viewed the conduct of the captors of Lewis and his associates, an elegant supper was given to them at Mr. Dillon's hotel, and a number of the gentlemen of the borough, and its vicinity, on the evening after the robbers were lodged in prison.

Let legislatures vote soldiers thanks and swords, the names of those brave and worthy men will be perpetuated; and the action will long point out to our citizens the importance of an imitation of their conduct.

From the Washington City Gazette.

THE CURRENCY.

As the period approaches for the meeting of the state legislatures, (one or more of which may be now in session) and of congress, the condition of the currency is a subject which presses itself upon the attention of the public with the greatest intensity.

It may be expected that there will be numerous expedients proposed by way of improving the circulating medium of the Union.

But expedients, in a matter of this serious and important nature, should be carefully guarded against.

The subject must be viewed in relation to the whole of the United States, or any remedy offered will be local and inefficient.

It should be considered with fairness, honesty, good temper, and a sincere desire to adopt the best means of cure

With respect to a circulating medium, every citizen has an interest common to every other citizen.

Those who propose to bolster up tottering or insolvent banks, or any banks that cannot pay its notes in good money on demand, and those who denounce the whole banking system in a mass, are equally distant from the true correcting medium.

It is futile, if not fraudulent, to attempt to sustain any bank, by entering into calculations of the degree of solvency or insolvency which appertains to it. The line of prompt payment of its notes, in good money, is the only true measure of its trustworthiness. It is the same thing to the holder of a bank note (though not, perhaps, to a stockholder) whether a bank, which will not pay its note, is near to, or far from, insolvency. Payment in true money, at sight, is the only satisfactory criterion.

A bank is not altogether like a merchant. It is, to be sure, a dealer in money; but for that very reason it ought never to fail; for real money is not a perishable article, and the directors of a bank always know what the state of their genuine means is. If they issue more notes than they can pay, they are wilfully culpable. Insolvent banks should be treated as bankrupts, but without the lenity shown to merchants, who have a thousand risks of the sea and otherwise.

Those who enjoy the people's confidence at this moment as legislators, should be cautious not to abuse it, by sutaining wild projects.

Those who endeavor to excite a mobbish spirit against all banks, must be cautious.

FROM HEUDE'S VOYAGE AND JOURNEY FROM INDIA.

On his journey to Bagdad, the author meets with the Arabian army returning from the contest near the capital. He thus describes it:—The appearance of the troops was equally military and interesting; they were the flower of the tribes. Every thing amongst them bore the stamp of that gallant daring enterprize which the traveller would naturally look for in the predatory system of warfare they pursue. Very few women, and scarcely any children could be observed, their families, in general, having been left at Coot. The few old men who could be seen, were venerable, bearded warriors, who managed their able steeds with all the address and skill of youth, improved by constant habitude; their locks were blanched, but their strength had not been impared by the fatigues and hardships of their profession. There were several amongst those foremost for their dignity, who must have numbered forty summers at the least, since they first bore arms; they were, however, equally lively, vigorous, and cheerful, with the rest; whilst they were only to be distinguished by the whiteness of their beards, and by those honorable scars which added an imposing majesty to the dignified importance of their carriage.

"Their horses were, by far, the finest we had yet noticed, in excellent condition, and full of spirit. Their herds of camels were so numerous, that our eyes could scarcely reach the spot unoccupied by these useful servitors of man. They were all exulting in the beauty and temper of their swords, and the lightness of their spears; vaunting in their strength, and anxious for a renewal of their strife." (Speaking of their qualities)—"The goodness of these troops, is less in the perfection of their arms, than in the vigor, patience, and hardiness of their horses; and their own physical ability to endure fatigue, and deprivations of every kind. No troops in the world can even subsist where these warriors of the desert will act with unimpared vigor and efficiency; for, as the desert is their only inheritance, so the Bedouins only are formed for the possession.

"The order of their march (if the expression may be used) was irregularity itself. Unconfined by roads, water or cultivation, in their selection of a track; unincumbered by lengthened files of waggons or artillery, in their wanderings; and with scarcely any baggage, beyond the little that was carried on the horses and camels they were mounted on, the whole army was spread over the level flat, in the shape nearly of a bird that flies; the head and tail forming the advance and rear, whilst the wings were composed of those more impatient, or more curious scouts, who separated in their rambles from the more beaten course. Within this space, the thickest throng could be distinguished in the centre; but evidently, less from the presence of any chief of rank, than from the general motion of the body towards a certain point. It might, indeed, have appeared, that each tribe was generally collected around the standard of its sheik, as the whole was grouped in irregular, shapeless masses; it could be seen, however, from the higher ground we stood upon, that the whole frequently intermixed, collected in a body, and separated again, as accident might direct. The chiefs were generally in front of their own immediate dependants being commonly better mounted than the rest; but it was more owing, as I thought, to the goodness of the horse, than to the pointed observance of any particular respect; a few instances only excepted, where a venerable age, and long approved valor and conduct, had probably increased the influence of those snow-hearded chiefs, who were only approached with superior reverence, and were generally accompanied by little flags, to mark the presence of some personage of greater consequence.

"The looseness of their ranks would naturally preclude any very accurate estimate of their numbers: but I should be inclined to think, at a rough guess, they were not less than seven or eight thousand strong. The tribe of the Montific Bedouins alone (I have been informed,) can bring 12,000 horse into the field; and, if numbers, on the present occasion, were left behind, it is probable their army had been joined by some of their allies." The author's remarks on the former state, and present nothingness (as he justly styles it) of Babylon, we shall reserve for some future opportunity.

FIDELITY OF THE JAVANESE.

'In decending the mountain I was obliged to use great caution, as the path must always be very slippery, in consequence of the heavy dews which fall upon the mountain; the thickness of the woods preventing their evaporation.—On our return it was especially so, as it was raining heavily during our descent. I stumbled frequently, and should have fallen more than once, but for the attention of the natives. They followed me closely, uttered a cry at every false step I made, and caught me by the arm whenever I was in danger. It is impossible to do justice to the active and emulous good-nature of the mountaineers, who were anxious to excel each other in rendering me service. During my stay on the mountain I received great assistance from them in all my pursuits, although they could not comprehend their object. They were at first much amused at my collecting plants familiar to their daily observation, yet vied with each other in gathering them for me. If I pointed to a flower at a great elevation, several started to obtain it, and he who succeeded evidently triumphed in his fortune. Neither was my presence necessary to excite them to this benevolent activity. Not being able, from the advanced hour of the day, to reach the top of the mountain, I despatched several natives to collect specimens of rocks from it; and on their return, I was surprised to see them laden with pieces of rock, bundles of plants, and joints of bamboo full of water collected from hollows at the top of the mountain. This they seemed to consider as holy, advising me to wash myself with it as a security against danger. But I should exhaust the patience of my reader were I to mention but a small proportion of the numerous proofs I personally experienced of the innate principles of benevolence that enter into the moral character of the Javanese. Not only in the excursion of which I am now giving the narrative, but during the whole period of my first and second visit in Java, they repeatedly occurred to me. That their intellectual is equal to their moral excellence, may be inferred from the specimens of their poetry which have lately been given to the world. Yet these are the people who have been pursued as beasts of prey, and of whom upwards of four hundred have been barbarously and uselessly slaughtered since the Island of Java has been given up by the English. Thank God, I did not hear that any of my countrymen had ever oppressed them, but often heard, and often saw, that the Javanese looked upon the English rather as benefactors than as masters, and it was notorious that the name of Raffles was almost idolized by them.

ABSCONDED from the residence of his master, in Washington city, on the evening of Thursday last, a negro boy named SAM, who calls himself SAM BROWN.—He is about 19 years of age, not of the deepest black, and is a stout, well set likely boy. He had on when he went away, a blue cloth jacket, corduroy pantaloons, and white vest; and took with him, besides, a blue cloth coat, white pantaloons, and white vest. He is the property of William Lowndes, Esq. and it is supposed he has been induced, in the absence of his master, to leave home, by some designing person. It is probable he will aim to reach some northern port, or to get on board of some boat or vessel in the river. Whoever will deliver the said boy to the Jailor of Washington city, shall receive the above reward, on application at the office of the National Intelligencer.

Charles County Maryland, Oct. 26.

One Hundred Dollars Reward.

RAN AWAY, on the 20th September last, from the subscriber, living near Battletown, in Frederick county, Virginia, a bright Mulatto Girl, named LAVINIA, but she will in all probability change her name. She is about 4 feet 3 or 4 inches high, is very likely and stoops considerably in walking. She took with her a bundle containing a variety of clothing. It has been ascertained that she is endeavoring to make her way to Philadelphia via Alex'a. and Baltimore. The above reward will be given for apprehending the said mulatto girl and bringing her home or lodging her in jail so that I get her again.

Valuable Land for Sale.

PURSUANT to a decree of the Superior court of chancery for the district of Fredericksburg in Virginia, the undersigned commissioners will proceed to sell at public auction, upon a credit of one, two, and three years, at Middleburg, in the county of Loudon, on Thursday the 18th day of November next, lying in the neighborhood of Middleburg.—The whole land is of that quality termed plaister land, and susceptible of high improvement by the use of it. The whole will be laid out into small tracts, of from two to three hundred acres each, and sold in separate tracts to suit purchasers. The whole is well watered, and no country is more healthy. Captain Pickett, who lives near the land, and who is employed to make a survey of it; and Mr. Sommers, who is the agent for the collection of the rents, will shew the land to those who may be inclined to purchase. Bond and security, and a deed of trust upon each tract, will be required of the purchaser.

4000 Acres of Land,

S. Drew, Merchant Tailor,

Removed from Fairfax-street to the corner of King and Columbus streets, and his prices falling.

RESPECTFULLY acquaints his customers and the citizens in general that he has removed as above, where he will study to give satisfaction. He has by him a small but well assorted stock of goods, which will be found on inspection to be of the best quality, the whole of which he wishes to sell low for cash, and as further inducements to purchasers he offers to cut out any goods, bought of him to any size or pattern gratis.

S Drew aware, of the advantage a ready money business has over one where long credit is given, thinks that a distinction ought to be made in the prices in each case: and as the price of provisions are low at present, he is glad to be able to announce to those customers who will feel disposed to pay him ready money for his work, that he will reduce the price of making to them according to the present journeymen's wages; and to prevent any supposed imposition on the one hand or disatisfaction on the other he is willing to be governed by the printed regulations of prices by which the journeymen are paid in Alexandria.

N. B. Bread, flour, beef, groceries, liquors or any thing valuable taken in exchange for clothes.

S Drew has this day opened a tavern in the same house, where he has laid in a supply of Philadelphia and the district porter and ale, together with liquors of the best quality, and he feels confident that he shall be able to give satisfaction to all who will please to favor him with a call.—He is fitting up his house for the accommodation of boarders, travellers, &c. and from its central situation, good beds and stabling, together with other requisites, he presumes that it will be found a convenient establishment.

Was Committed,

TO the jail for the county of Alexandria on the 3d inst. as a runaway, a negro man called BEN HENDERSON, supposed to be the property of George Thornton, of King George county. The said negro is about 50 years of age; 5 feet 6 inches high; bald head; and a shoemaker by trade. The owner is desired to come prove property, pay charges, and take him away, otherwise he will be disposed of as the law directs.

100 Dollars Reward.

RAN away on the 28th of April, from the farm of the subscriber, in Dogue Neck, Fairfax Co. Virginia, negro HARRY, aged about twenty three years, about five feet ten inches high, very black, well built, has a considerable impediment in his speech, when spoken to evinces much confusion, and replies almost unintelligibly: had on when he left home, a much worn suit of domestic cloth. I have every reason to believe that he is endeavoring to pass for a free man, and as such went off in some of the bay craft during the late fishing season. All masters of vessels are forewarned from harboring or taking into their employ said negro, under penalty of having the law rigidly enforced against them. I will give twenty dollars, if taken in the county of Fairfax, or district of Columbia; if beyond that distance, the above reward, provided he is secured in jail so that I get him again. WM. MASON.
Charles County, Md. June 1.

The editors of the National Intelligencer and Baltimore Federal Gazette will insert the above until forbid, and send their accounts to Port Tobacco for payment.
June 11 tf

100 Dollars Reward.

I WILL give the above reward to any person who will return to my possession, negro LAWRENCE, who assumes the surname of FENWICK. This fellow left my farm, on the Wicomico river, in Charles county, Md. on the 6th July, in consequence of his own outrageous conduct towards my overseer. He is a negro of a fine erect figure, good features, a smooth black skin, rather above the middle stature, of a youthful appearance for one of thirty years of age, and of great plausibility and natural smartness. His ears grow remarkably close to his head, and on the inside of his lower lip he has a white mark or spot. I purchased him 4 years ago of the estate of Mrs. P. H. Courts, of this county. I am led (by circumstances which have come to my knowledge since he absconded,) to believe that he will endeavor to make his way to King George county, Va.; should he not take this route, he will probably be met with in the District of Columbia, or in the upper counties of this state, on his way to Pennsylvania. I apprehend he will change his name, and if committed to jail, refuse to state to whom he belongs, as the misconduct which preceded his departure, & his absconding, have all appeared since to have been premeditated. He took all his clothes with him, of which he had a large number; among them—a new bearskin over-coat, a long close-bodied blue coat, a pair of striped jean pantaloons, one or more white waistcoats, besides many articles of coarse cloathing; these, however, he will probably exchange, or sell them for cash to defray his travelling expenses.

I will give the above reward to any person who will bring him home to me, or FIFTY DOLLARS if confined in jail, and notice given me, so that I recover him.—Should he be taken out of the state, I will also pay all reasonable costs and charges which may attend the bringing him home.

PROSPECTUS

Of a new periodical work to be published in the city of Washington, entitled the Washington Theological REPERTORY.

EDITORS. { Rev. Wm Hawley, Washington. Rev. Wm. H. Wilmer, Alexandria. Rev. Oliver Norris, Alexandria. Rev Reuel Keith, Georgetown.

Assisted by several other literary gentlemen of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

IF any apology were necessary for this undertaking, it may be found in the fact, that there is no publication on a similar plan, in all that section of our country lying south of New-York, and but one in the whole of the United States. It has been matter of equal surprize and regret, that the Episcopal Church should be so far behind other Christian denominations, in similar efforts to disseminate the principles of religion and piety. At a period like the present, when the Lord is preparing his way on earth, by the most remarkable efforts of human agency, and the most wonderful operations of his providence and grace—when we perceive in every part of Christendom, a praise-worthy emulation to share in the glorious work of filling the earth with the knowledge of the only true God, and his Son Jesus Christ; it would seem criminal for any to withhold their exertions, however feeble, in the great enterprize of human happiness and salvation. The editors have, therefore, felt it their duty to make this humble effort to supply this acknowledged deficiency on the part of the church in this section of the country, and to bear their share in the common exertions of Christians to promote the Redeemer's Kingdom. And having obtained the services of a gentleman, in whose talents and principles they have confidence, whose time will be wholly devoted to the superintendence of the work, they feel encouraged to solicit the patronage of the public.

The publication will be conducted under the immediate inspection and control of the above named editors, who will form a committee to review every article intended for publication. The principles upon which it will be conducted are those of the bible, as illustrated in the articles, Liturgy and Homilies of the Protestant Episcopal Church. As members of this church the editors will feel bound to support the Apostolical character of her institutions, the pious tendency of her rites and ceremonies, and the evangelical nature of her doctrines. But in these, and all other discussions, they hope never to loose sight of that great law of charity which teaches us to "preserve the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace."

Acting upon those catholic principles, so long and so successively pursued by "The Christian Observer," their chief object will be to inculcate sound theological knowledge, and to delineate and recommend pure and vital religion. They trust therefore, that while the members of every Christian denomination may find something edifying and instructive, none will discover any just cause for offence in the pages of this work. General subjects of biblical criticism, practical illustrations of scriptural truth, the biography of illustrious persons, evidences of the truth of revelation, essays on the history and polity of the church, reviews of interesting publications, religious, literary and philosophical intelligence—in short, whatever is connected with the promotion of religion, humanity and literature, will find a place in this repository.

The testimony of experience supersedes the necessity of dwelling on the advantages of a periodical publication on the plan proposed. Its obvious tendency will be to render the various departments of religious knowledge more easy and accessible, and give a more ready currency and wider circulation, to those great truths which involve the present welfare and future destiny of man.

It will tend powerfully to stimulate the exertions of the editors, and console them under the difficulties attendant on the prosecution of this work, amidst many other avocations, should it prove the means under the blessing of God, of enriching any of its readers with the saving knowledge of Christ, and prepare them for a participation in the felicity and glory of his heavenly kingdom. With this hope they commit it into his hands, and confidently solicit their brethren of the clergy and laity to assist them in carrying into effect the objects of the undertaking.

TERMS OF THE WORK.

A volume of the Repertory shall consist of twelve numbers, of which one shall be published on the first day of every month, containing thirty-two large octavo pages, stitched in blue, and attended with a table of contents.

The paper used in the work shall be good, and the typography executed with the greatest care.

The price of a volume is two dollars, payable in advance; to such as omit the advance, two dollars and fifty cents.

It is designed to enlarge the size of the work, without increasing the price, as soon as one thousand subscribers shall be obtained.

Communications and remittances may be directed to any of the editors, post paid.

Any person becoming responsible for five subscribers, shall receive a sixth copy gratis.

The first number may be expected in the month of July. June 26
